

A Level Spanish—Competition Writing

A Level Spanish students are currently taking part in a writing competition. The students write a chained short story where the last sentence of the week's story sets the first sentence for next week's story. Here is the latest winning story.

Tia, Year 12

"No vale la pena fingir estar contento en esta casa miserable. Necesito tener el control como antes.", pensé. La snob de mi madre quiso que yo fuera amable con su papacito de 70 años - perdón, su esposo. Él no era una mala persona, pero era como un abuelo. Especialmente puesto que mi madre tiene supuestamente 25 años, 25 más 15, claro. No sé a quién está intentando engañar. Siempre era asqueroso verlos juntos. Tanto, que me encargué de la situación como haría cualquier adolescente normal. Lo envenené, los médicos dijeron que murió por causas naturales. Ahora todo es perfecto otra vez. Solo los dos.

"It's not worth it to pretend I am content in this miserable house. I need to have control like before.", I thought. My snobbish mother wanted me to be kind to her 70 year old sugar-daddy - sorry, husband. He was not a bad person, he was like a grandfather. Especially since my mother was allegedly 25 years old, 25 plus 15 of course. I don't know who she is fooling. It was always sickening to see them together. So, I handled the situation like any normal teenager. I poisoned him, the doctors said that he died of natural causes. Now everything was perfect again. Only the two of us.
