

CHSG LIFE UNDER LOCKDOWN

Hello Year 10

What a busy week last week was! The government announced that they have some idea of how they want school to return in September, they announced the travel bridges so some can continue with their summer holiday plans and on the 4th a small portion of our former lifestyle reopened (quite pleased about this last bit because I need another hair cut!).

All of this news was progress in the battle against the Pandemic and an opportunity to regain some of the freedoms we have missed over the past 100+ days. And I am sure that there are a number of you who are desperate to meet-up with your friends again or go on holiday or eat at your favourite restaurants...and rightly so. This is a time to take back control and live a little. It's a time to get excited again.

But, I also feel a little sad about the changes. I've really enjoyed living a different lifestyle as before. I've enjoyed walking to the common with my dog where previously I drove, I've enjoyed sitting down to breakfast with my family each morning, and, as much as I have fear of admitting it, I've enjoyed watching and learning the lyrics to Descendants 3 and Zombies with my two girls...sad right? And for me I think its important that, as this comes to an end, we reflect and learn from lockdown. Although there have been countless negatives there have also been countless positives and we must use this as an opportunity for growth and development.

To put this into context for you, each and every one of you have had to develop new skills of organization, time management and learning to adapt to our changed timetable and delivery of lessons. You are all more independent learners and more responsible for your education than you have ever been. Some of you would have realized that your education is actually important, and that school is a consistent place of stability and growth. So, it's important that you don't lose sight of that and that we as a school make sure we support and continue to guide you down those pathways.

As you have read, the staff at school are working tirelessly to make sure that you get the best education you can get when we return in September. New lessons and workbooks are being created, new facilities are being built, and new programs of support developed. This is all coming from what we have learnt about you during lockdown. This is coming from us learning our lockdown lessons on how we can support you better and deliver a more unified education for all.

#teamchsg is bigger than ever now so be ready for next year. Be ready for the challenges that this lockdown will continue to bring us as we progress through the year and be ready to put those lockdown lessons to good use. Next year we all need to be part of our team and take the opportunity to lead from the front. Let's make next year special.

So, don't lose sight, keep focused for these last two weeks and remember to drop me a note if you need anything – jimstockwell@carshaltongirls.org.uk.

Have a great week

Mr Stockwell

How to go out when you have to stay in

This week brings us an exciting opportunity to visit the tombs of the ancients. The Egyptian department of antiquities has giving free entry to the Tomb of Queen Meresankh III, saving you the cost of £2.50! Have a look at the hieroglyphics, the burial chamber and all the other wonders of this ancient civilization.

School Lockers

The school lockers are going to be removed.

Any clothing/possessions within the lockers will be bagged per room and stored until October Half Term. Folders/workbooks will be left in the tutor room. Any other items, including soiled lunch boxes/food will be disposed of accordingly.

If you have left something in a locker can you fill in the form on this link with your details.

The deadline for completing the form is Tuesday 14th July.

CHSG LIFE UNDER LOCKDOWN SIXTH FORM

Sophie 13JPI

School finished abruptly for all of us at CHSG in March, but it's certainly saddening to know that after almost 7 years at the school, I won't be coming back.

This time has been uncertain for us Year 13s, as we are not only not sitting exams this year, but it is also uncertain whether university courses will be resuming as normal in September.

Despite this, I've been keen to keep myself busy during lockdown. As a member of the Air Cadets, I have been participating in online nights which include lessons and quizzes.

I have also used this time as an opportunity to focus on my health and fitness by being more active- whether it be walking, cycling, or doing home workouts! It was definitely not easy to adapt to Lockdown, but I am keen to say a proper goodbye when I can!

Saher 13JPI

Lockdown has been a strange time for everyone, but it has given us a chance to spend more time with family (possibly too much?).

During this time, I have been taking well needed time to reflect and relax. Baking a lot more has been nice as I'd never had the time before. I've been busy in the kitchen learning to cook new things and have been making dinner a couple of times a week as part of my parents mission to get me prepared for university.

I have also joined a couple university group chats these have been a great way to socialise and meet new people virtually.

I hope working from home isn't too bad and that you and your families are well and safe.

CHSG LIFE UNDER LOCKDOWN SLT CORNER

Mr Conduit-Smith

Talk a walk on the wild side....

Dear Students, I hope you are well and safe. With the easing of lockdown, at weekends I have been exploring the countryside around London. I am amazed at how beautiful our country is and you only have to travel a few miles to find some truly amazing scenery. With my local park being busy, I have been using a walking app to find some excellent places to take my dog Edie for a walk so we both get some much needed exercise.

One of my walks is a circular walk starting and finishing in Westerham. Westerham is a nice town located 15 miles south of Sutton. The walk involves walking across meadows, through forests and over a river, (Edie liked the river to cool off!). Part of the walk takes you past Chartwell, which is where Winston Churchill lived for a large part of his life. The walk is 10 km long and took me just over 2hrs.

During this uncertain time, it is important more than ever to look after ourselves both physically and mentally. Doing exercise is an excellent way of relieving stress and anxiety as well as keeping physically healthy. When we exercise it stimulates the release of dopamine, norepinephrine, and serotonin.

These brain chemicals play an important part in regulating our mood. For example, regular exercise can positively impact serotonin levels in our brain. Raising your levels of serotonin boosts your mood and overall sense of well-being.

So there you have it, exercise can lift our mood so dust off your trainers and get out there!

Maths Brain Teaser

7 cars have stopped at the traffic lights.

- The green car is directly behind the blue car.
- The black car is directly in front of the red car.
- The silver car is between the white car and the blue car.
- The pink car is directly behind the green car and two in front of the red car.

List the cars in their correct order.

Half the gas weighs $95 - 71 = 24\text{kg}$.
So the empty cylinder weighs $71 - 24 = 47\text{kg}$.

CHSG LIFE UNDER LOCKDOWN CAREER PROFILES

The Army

What the role involves

The army is responsible for defending the UK and its allies across the world, as well as taking part in peacekeeping and humanitarian operations. You will be involved in regular training exercises to ensure you maintain a high level of fitness and military skills so that you are ready for combat at any time. You will also choose to train and work within one of many trades. You may be posted to dangerous areas and inhospitable environments at any time, whether for peacekeeping and aid missions or to engage in warfare.

Type of person suited to this work

You should be able to work as part of a team, reacting quickly to orders, working on your own initiative where necessary, and supporting other team members both professionally and emotionally at times. You must be extremely disciplined and responsible, with the ability to think and act logically under pressure. You must be physically fit with excellent stamina.

Qualifications and courses

There are no formal qualifications for entry as a soldier, although some technical jobs require certain GCSEs. You must be aged 16 to enlist as well as meet the army nationality and residency requirements. Applicants under 18 must have parental consent. As part of the recruitment process you will be required to spend 2 days at an assessment centre. As part of your assessment you will take a physical assessment, a medical and a number tests and team exercises. Upon acceptance you will begin phase 1 of training. If you are under 17 years and 5 months old this will be either a 20 or 40 week course at Harrogate. If you are older you will do a 14 week package at either Pirbright or Winchester. After initial training you go on to do phases 2 or 3 in particular trades, such as aviation and engineering.

Salary guide

Soldiers can expect to receive £14,931 per year during initial training. This rises to a minimum of £18,488 per year once you are qualified as a private. Some roles receive additional pay such as radiographers and combat engineers. All staff receive annual salary increases. If you move up the ranks to sergeant you can expect to earn around £33,000. There is also a scheme which offers additional pay for spending longer than 10 days away from home. In addition to basic salary you will receive subsidised accommodation and food with free medical and dental cover.

Mrs Phelps-Gardiner - Careers & Work Experience Coordinator

Conversation is the key...

We crave contact with others for support, wellbeing and entertainment. But as our lifestyles become ever more reliant on digital tools and social media, these simple interactions are under threat. Nothing compares to living in real communities and spending actual physical time with the people we love. This has been highlighted by the COVID-19 Lockdown period.

Why is human interaction so important?

For one thing, it is important for our mental health. Social contact helps us to cope with stress and major life changes. People will have still been experiencing stressful circumstances throughout the Lockdown period. Our way of dealing with things that cause stress is social interaction with others. There is also compelling evidence to suggest human contact is vital for physical health and general well-being too. The advantages of communicating with others,

- Sharing our experiences, gives us the opportunity to receive a different perspective.
- We get new ideas; encouragement, advice and strength to cope.
- It builds up our language and social emotional skills
- We learn to interpret events, express what we think, want and need
- We develop our problem-solving skills
