Pensé que estaba sola

Debe de ser difícil encontrar más de doce personas a la vez.

Pensé.

En la época en que vivimos, casi toda la población mundial había sido eliminada. Era raro la reunión de grandes grupos. Caminé a través de la destrucción con mi máscara de gas y entré en este supermercado abandonado.

Las luces rotas parpadearon y olía a comida podrida. Cogí unas latas de conidia y las puse en mi mochila. Cuando estaba a punto de irme, escuché pasos. Inmediatamente puse el cuchillo a mi lado, si lo necesitaba lo usaría para defenderme. Cuando me di la vuelta, me sorprendió lo que vi.

I thought I was alone

It must be hard to find twelve or more people at a time.

I thought.

In the time we lived in, almost all the global population had been eliminated. It was rare gathering in big groups. I walked through the destruction with my gas mask and went in this abandoned supermarket.

The broken light flickered and it smelt like rotten food. I grabbed some cans of food and put them in my backpack. When i was about to leave, I heard footsteps. I immediately put the knife by my side, I was going to use it to defend myself, if needed.

When I turned my back, I was shocked by what I saw.
