Dear Parent

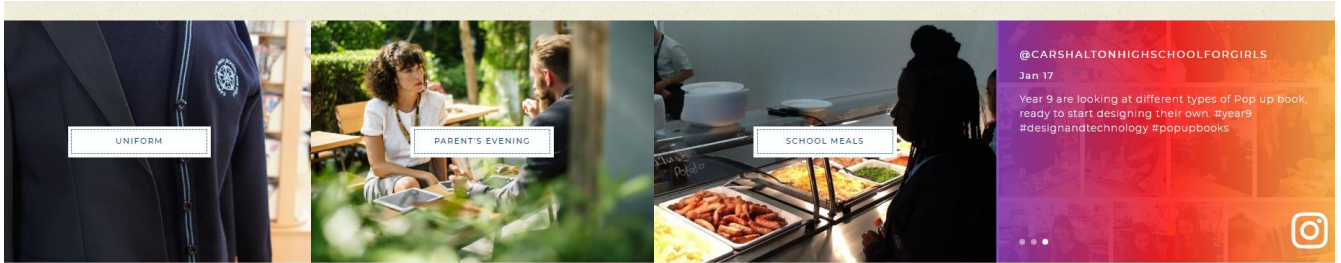

New Website & App Launch

I am writing with regard to our new school website (www.chsg.org.uk) which will be launched and go live on the 28th January 2019.

As previously communicated we have designed it so it is compatible with mobile technologies like tablets and phones. We have also taken into account lots of brilliant suggestions made by many parents in the survey sent out before Christmas.

When you have had a chance to browse around the site use the home icon  to return to the Home Page. You will also find quick links to our social media accounts, additional useful links and the search tool on the Home Page.

What people say

I was reminded to contact you because there is a play, on Radio 4 right now, called "Hands Up" about Michael Brown, the young black male who was shot six times by a white police officer in Ferguson. I meant to email you after the last Black History lecture on 30th October, to say just how much Richard and I were impressed by all of the talks we attended and how much we appreciated being
