Dear Parent

Pastoral Support for Students

Ensuring that all of our students are happy and feel safe, is important to us. A range of support is available to our young people both in and out of school.

In school the first port of call for any student should be their form tutor; from here their tutor can guide them to the appropriate person in school to help them if they are unable to do so themselves. However if their tutor is not available any member of staff will find the time to listen and advise them where to seek the correct guidance.

'Sutton Young Peoples' Emotional Wellbeing Support' offers a range of additional support services for our young people, details of which are attached to this message. These are particularly important outside of school hours, for example, during the school holidays, evening and weekends.
